

GENERAL ADVICE

The following wording and format is to be used when providing general advice or information to clients in a seminar or newsletter.

This disclaimer should be presented in the same manner as the information or advice is delivered.

Disclosure and Disclaimer

The presenter/author acts as an authorised representative of Integrity Financial Planners Pty Ltd (IFP).

This presentation is of a general nature and does not constitute advice to any individual. You should seek individual and specific advice before making any financial decision based on information contained in this presentation. Failure to seek advice may lead to financial decisions and consequences that are not appropriate to your needs and circumstances and financial loss may be incurred.

Any projections of future returns are estimates made for illustrative purposes only. Returns are not guaranteed by IFP and actual returns may vary from those illustrated. Any projections are based on reasonable assumptions based on our analysis and experience.

The Prospectus or Product Disclosure Statement should be read prior to making a decision to purchase or invest in any product.

IFP and its representative may receive fees, commissions or other benefits as a result of investments in or purchases of financial products discussed in this presentation. Any such entitlements shall be disclosed to you in writing by IFP prior to IFP accepting any investment in or purchase of a financial product by you.
